Communication Ref : AM 300513
Subject : Class 1 Modification - AQ Review MOD081 Amendment Reports & MOD378 AQ Appeal Reports Publication - For Representation

Dear Colleagues,

AQ Amendment MOD081 reports are currently issued to the industry by Xoserve via an email distribution list; this same approach was to be adopted for the MOD0378 AQ Appeal reports. However, a business service improvement has been identified that both suites of reports should be published on Xoserve.com.

Xoserve would therefore like to obtain UK-Link Committee approval to publish both reports on the Xoserve.com webpage following your agreement that this is a Class 1 UK Link Modification change despite it being a result of a UNC Modification. Whilst these changes do not impact UK Link Systems this communication is issued to Users to allow impact assessment of this change. Each report will continue to be published in an MS Excel format allowing Shippers the flexibility to download the reports and use the data as they see fit.

The comment period for this change, in particular the classification and implementation date will closeout at the UK-Link Committee meeting in June where we will also be seeking your approvals. Should you be unable to attend the meeting but wish to submit comments for discussion at the Committee, please send these to uklink@xoserve.com by Wednesday 12th June.

It is proposed this change is implemented for the first release of MOD081 on 1st July 2013.

Should you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Regards,
