

Launch of Dual Fuel Energy Data Service Trial to Price Comparison Websites

21st December 2017

Dear colleague,

Gemserve and Xoserve are delighted to announce the launch of the Dual Fuel Energy Data Service (DFEDS) for Price Comparison Websites (PCWs). We have today written to PCWs to advise them they can access a sandbox environment using test data to explore the service and give us feedback, prior to us launching the full service early in 2018.

Today marks an important step in the exciting partnership between Gemserve and Xoserve, working jointly with MRASCo and UNC parties, on the journey towards a Market Intelligence Service. Over the coming months we will work together through the Joint MIS Development Group and MIS Programme Board to build on this 'proof of concept', first looking to make the data available to suppliers and other parties where feasible, and building on that to deliver a robust industry-led solution that can underpin the new Faster Switching processes.

For further information on the MIS development project, please contact andy.miller@xoserve.com or tony.thornton@gemserve.com

Kind regards,

Andy Miller and Tony Thornton
