

Industry Codes Brexit preparedness

Meeting with Code Administrators

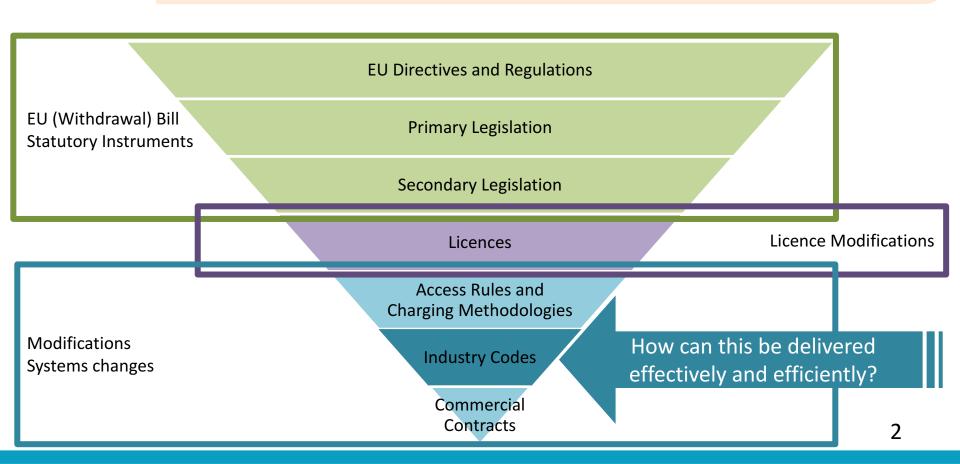

Where do our industry codes fit into Brexit Preparedness?

We all have a shared interest in ensuring that the regulatory framework is fit for purpose on 29 March 2019

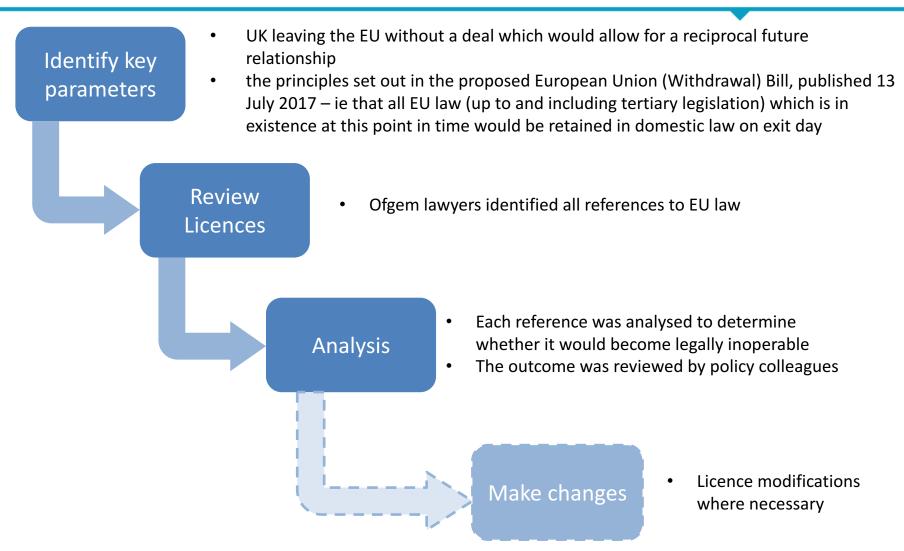

To do this we need to identify areas that may need amending to work, regardless of the negotiations

If we all do our roles we can manage the process effectively

Ofgem's licence trawl

Trawl of codes completed by end of September

Analysis of options for remedying key issues completed by end of October

Pre-mod process on remedies, October to April Our current expectation is that the formal modification process will need to begin in April

Implementation of the modifications in March 2019

Flexibility is key throughout this whole process.
As greater clarity arises the process must evolve to meet any identified needs, always ensuring that the implementation date is met.

What steps have been taken so far to prepare your codes for Brexit?
What steps need to be taken?
How can you work together to highlight dependencies, issues and findings?
How can a whole industry stakeholder plan be coordinated?
How can this keep on track?

Key steps

- Complete the trawl by the end of September
- Begin analysis of options for remedying issues

Sub steps

- Have monthly meetings like this to update on progress
- Feed in any issues as they arise to Ofgem/BEIS where necessary
- Coordinate between code administrators

Facilitation

- What do you need to be able to take this forward?
- How can you get it?

Ofgem is the Office of Gas and Electricity Markets.

Our priority is to protect and to make a positive difference for all energy consumers. We work to promote value for money, security of supply and sustainability for present and future generations. We do this through the supervision and development of markets, regulation and the delivery of government schemes.

We work effectively with, but independently of, government, the energy industry and other stakeholders. We do so within a legal framework determined by the UK government and the European Union.
